

Colonial™ 106 & 116

The warm look of traditional wood panel doors

Colonial wood panel garage door

Individual Colonial door sections are a full 1-3/8" thick

First impressions last, and a Colonial wood panel door gives your home a quality appearance that endures year after year. Designed for easy operation and strongly built, Colonial doors make beauty and convenience surprisingly affordable. An extended warranty insures their quality.

Standard 106– West Coast hemlock, fir or equal with 1/4" mahogany plywood panels. Standard-duty rails and stiles.

Custom 116– West Coast hemlock, fir or equal with 1/4" mahogany plywood panels. Heavy-duty rails and stiles.

Colonial™ 106 & 116

Wood panel styling – In a lastingly beautiful tradition.

Crafted in first class tradition

Classic doors are designed and hand-crafted to meet your highest expectations. We've combined precision construction methods with today's technology in creating an exceptional high quality wood door:

- 1 Shiplap style connections between sections provide a weathertight fit, and smooth operation. Tracks and hardware are rust-resistant, hot-dipped galvanized steel.
- 2 Individual door sections a full 1-3/8" thick.
- 3 Center panels are durable, 1/4" exterior-grade mahogany plywood.
- 4 Panel frames (rails and stiles) are made from high-quality, kiln-dried West Coast hemlock, sitka spruce or equal.
- 5 Mortise and tenon joints are glued and steel-pinned for lasting strength.

Colonial Wood Panel Garage Door

Good styling endures, and so does quality construction. Both make the Colonial door a prudent investment for your home. Colonial doors are made from high-quality, kiln-dried Western woods in sizes and styles to complement a range of architectural designs. Your choice of a Colonial wood panel door will keep rewarding you year after year.
